Antique Heart Pine

Antique Heart Pine is one of the most unique lumber species, renowned for its strength and character that took centuries to create.

Antique Heart Pine was used extensively hundreds of years ago in factories and warehouses built during the Industrial Revolution and was once the most functional wood for construction in America. A slow-growing tree, taking 200 to 400 years to mature, it has a patina and sought after tight rings which stem from its 'old growth' and lends the strength to this unique wood.
